HAS NEW LEASE
ON LIFE DOYLE SAYSDeclares Tanlac Relieved Him of Indigestion and Sluggishness.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 5.—M. J. Doyle, of 1127 West Jefferson street, this city, says Tanlac taught him to relish his food after he supposed he had lost his appetite permanently. Mr. Doyle is a route man for the Adams Express Company.

"My digestion was all out of shape," he said recently. "I got to be so bad that I ate almost nothing, and didn't enjoy what I did eat. After a meal I felt worse than I had before. Warm weather made me feel listless and no account, but in cold weather, and especially in damp weather, I was subject to bad colds."

"I dragged along with my work in a half-hearted way. My nerves were in bad shape. I didn't sleep well."

"In the course of my business it was suggested to me several times that I try Tanlac, and I decided to do it. The first bottle did me a world of good, and now I feel as though I had a new lease on life. I am glad to tell others how much good this remarkable medicine has done me, in the hope that others may derive as much benefit from it as I have."

Tanalac, the peerless preparation, can now be obtained in Richmond at Perry's drug store.—adv

Splendid Opening.

The Star Sample Company, which has a chain of stores in Central Kentucky towns, held its formal opening in this city Saturday morning. Long before the hour of opening a large crowd congregated in front of the store and when the doors were thrown open there was a great rush for the many bargains offered by the firm. A large crowd thronged the place the entire day, and the management is highly pleased with its reception. The new firm is located on First street at present, but it is their intention to get more commodious quarters as soon as they can make arrangements.

Prof. Dodge Honored.

Prof. L. V. Dodge, of Berea College, one of the oldest and best known educators in the State and for many years active in the G. A. R. circles, was highly honored last week by the Grand Army, at the forty-fifth annual reunion of the organization, which was held in Washington, D. C. Prof. Dodge was elected Junior Vice-Commander-in-Chief of the national organization last Friday. He was elected on the second ballot. Prof. Dodge is a scholar and a gentleman, and the honor could have been bestowed on no more worthy person. With hundreds of friends the Climax-Madisonian joins in hearty congratulations.

Judge Gilbert To Run.

It is currently reported that Judge Ralph W. Gilbert, of Shelbyville, has definitely determined to make the race for Congress in the Eighth district. It is said he will not make formal announcement of his candidacy, however, until after the November election. When that is over he proposes to begin an active campaign for the Democratic nomination and prosecute vigorously until the issue has been definitely settled in the primary. Judge Gilbert is a son of the late Hon. G. G. Gilbert, who so ably represented the Eighth district in Congress for a number of years.

KENTUCKY CHURCH
GOES ON RECORDNorthern Methodists' Conference
Votes Unanimously for Suffrage Without Debate.

The following telegram came the afternoon of September 4 to the president of Kentucky Equal Rights Association, Louisville, Ky. The Kentucky Methodist Episcopal Conference in session in Covington voted this morning to endorse woman suffrage. It went through without debate and was unanimous. (Signed) Mrs. Chas. Firth.

This is the Conference of the Northern Methodists. This church granted "laity rights" to women in the days of Frances Willard, a privilege which the Southern Methodist Church still refuses to the noble women in its ranks. "Laity rights" means the right to participate in a vote in the councils for church government and for the management of foreign and home missions, so large a part of the work for which is done by women. The Northern Methodist Church has in many States of the Union endorsed woman suffrage. The request that the Kentucky M. E. Conference endorse the principle of woman suffrage, as one important to the moral development and improvement of the State, was made by the members of the board of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association.

CAMPAIGN BOOK OUT.

Democratic Guide Book Contains Valuable Data. Copies Sent To All Speakers.

The Democratic campaign book for 1915 is out and copies of it have been mailed from the headquarters at the Galt House, Louisville, to prominent Democrats in all parts of Kentucky. The first batch went to those who are to take the stump that they may have at hand the abundant material contained in the book to help them in preparing their speeches.

The book contains the record of the Democratic and Republican parties in both State and nation and gives first hand information concerning the stewardship of the Democrats. No facts are left out which will be valuable to show the contrast between the two parties in the management of State affairs and even the platforms of both parties for various years past set forth. Particular stress is laid upon Republican extravagance.

Five speeches are contained in the book, being printed in full. They are the speeches of the gubernatorial candidate, A. O. Stanley, at Glasgow, on September 20, and his speech at Louisville on the subject of good roads, delivered on September 10; the speech of Senator Ollie James at the State Convention and the convention speeches of Hon. E. J. McDermott and Hon. H. V. McCluskey, also delivered at the State Convention.

Among the issues discussed in the book, either in the platform of 1915, which is taken up section by section, or in speeches on taxation, the condition of the treasury, good roads, schools, "invisible government," public utilities, corrupt practices and franchises. Stanley's personal and political record is covered in full. A good deal of space in the book being devoted to a description of his career as a public man and what he has accomplished in the State and in the halls of Congress at Washington. The book contains 196 pages and is bound in convenient form.

Judge Benton Testifies.

Judge James M. Benton, who directed the investigation by the grand jury into election frauds in the primary of last August, which he declared, in his charge to the jury, to be the most corrupt in the history of the county, was himself a witness before the grand jury last week. He was before the grand jury for an hour, at Winchester.

Champ Clark Can't Come.

Champ Clark, Speaker of the National House of Representatives, has written to the Democratic State campaign managers here regretting that it will be impossible for him to come to Kentucky to make speeches for the ticket in the pending campaign. Speaker Clark explains that chautauque engagements, made months ago, take up all his available time and that as much as he would like to come to his native State and raise his voice for his devoted friend, Owsley Stanley, for Governor, he has no choice in the matter. To fulfill the lecture engagements he is under contract for.

President Wilson May Come To Kentucky.

The Democratic managers in Louisville have been informed that if it is possible for him to get away from Washington, President Wilson will come to Kentucky and make one speech for Stanley. An invitation was extended to him by Senator James and in the conversation between the two, the President told Senator James that he was keenly interested in the race Stanley is making and wanted to do everything in his power to help him. This is an unusually busy time for the President, owing to the complicated foreign affairs and he naturally could not make a definite promise at the time Senator James called on him. He did promise, however, that if pressure of work prevented his coming to Kentucky to make a speech, he would write a letter, which would leave no doubt in the mind of anyone as to the strong personal regard he has for Stanley.

FAILS TO SATISFY
UNITED STATESNew German Note on Arabic Case
Held Disappointing.

LANSING CONFERS WITH WILSON

Latest Berlin Communication, It Is Stated, Covers Merely One More Step In the Way to a Complete Settlement of the Submarine Controversy—German Ambassador Still Optimistic.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Following his receipt of a note from the German government on the submarine issue, handed him by the German ambassador, Secretary Lansing had a conference with President Wilson. The conference between the president and Mr. Lansing covered in a general way all developments of the last two weeks bearing on the foreign affairs of the United States. The expectation is that for several days now the issue with Germany will receive once more the earnest consideration of the White House and the state department, while a declaration as to the next step is being worked out.

There are indications that an attempt will be made to shroud the negotiations now under way between the United States and German governments in complete secrecy. It is known that this is the desire of the German ambassador, who feels that the prospects of a speedy and amicable adjustment of the submarine controversy will be materially injured by proportion to the publicity given the exchanges taking place between the two governments.

Contrary to the rosy predictions of the German ambassador, it is understood that the note from his government which he presented to Mr. Lansing covers merely one more step and not the whole way to a complete settlement of the submarine issue. However, the German ambassador feels he has every reason to retain his optimism as to the eventual outcome of the controversy, while Secretary Lansing has repudiated statements attributing to him a feeling of pessimism.

The new note deals with the question raised in the Arabic case, about which there has already been some correspondence between the United States and the German governments.

This new note is the first result of the ambassador's undertaking to break the deadlock threatening the settlement of the submarine case. The impression now prevails that the German government's latest communication falls considerably short of complete satisfaction of the American position. Berlin is not ready, it is asserted, to yield to the extent of a complete disavowal of the submarine commander figuring in the Arabic case. There is a confidence, however, that by continuation of the exchanges the German government will be brought into a position satisfactory to this government and that with the Arabic case thus disposed of further progress toward a settlement of the submarine issue will then be possible.

President Wilson has taken the position that the United States can not arbitrate questions involving the loss of American lives, and it is believed that in the next step the Washington government will indicate that the only matter it can submit to arbitration is the amount of the damages to be paid after the question of liability itself already is admitted. The American government has insisted that the loss of American lives be disavowed and liability for the act assumed by the German government.

BERLIN ON OPERATION

French and English Forces Held at All Points.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—The British forces have failed to recapture territory north of Loos, according to the official statement, while about Souchez and in Champagne the French, still on the offensive, have been held at all points. East of Souchez the French were able to gain a small section of German trench, about 130 feet in length, but to make up for this loss the Germans drove the French from a section of their trenches in Champagne. During a French aerial raid yesterday, the French shot down several German planes. In the Rothol district a French airship was forced to land and the crew were made prisoners.

EARTHQUAKE IN WEST

Nevada the Center of the Latest Seismic Disturbance.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Oct. 4.—An earthquake of unusual extent east and west was felt in this city and reported from Sacramento and San Jose in California, Baker City in Oregon, Reno and Winnemucca in Nevada and Boise, Idaho, Saturday night. The center of the seismic disturbance seemed to be in Nevada, where it severed lines of communication. In Sacramento people poured from the buildings to the street. One disturbance occurred about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, but the most violent series of shocks occurred about 11 o'clock coast time.

ULTIMATUM SENT TO BULGARIA

Russia Demands That Negotiations With Germany Cease.

THREATENS TO RECALL ENVOY

Dismissal of All German Officers in the Bulgarian Army Within Twenty-four Hours Also Demanded by the Czar—Unlikely That Bulgarian Government Will Recede From Its Attitude.

Petrograd, Oct. 4.—Russia has delivered a formal ultimatum to Bulgaria demanding that Bulgaria immediately cease negotiations with Germany and dismiss all German officers in the Bulgarian army within twenty-four hours. If these demands are not complied with the Russian minister to Sofia will be recalled.

The ultimatum sets forth that the financial negotiations which Bulgaria has been carrying on with Germany and the presence of Bulgarian troops on the Serbian frontier no longer leave any room for doubt respecting the aggressive intentions which that country retains. Russia, continues the document, can not brook any exhibition of hostility towards a Slav nation or towards the common enemies of the entente powers. Therefore, if all intention of hostilities is not straightway disavowed by the dismissal of German officers from the Bulgarian ministry of war and from the staff of the army, diplomatic relations between the two governments can no longer be continued.

In a sense, the ultimatum is an appeal. "The representative of Russia," it says, "which is bound to Bulgaria by the imperishable memory of her liberation from the Turkish yoke, can not sanction by its presence negotiations for fratricidal aggression against a Slav and allied people."

Little doubt is felt respecting the consequence of the Russian ultimatum, for it is held to be highly improbable that Bulgaria, having gone so far toward support of Germany, will recede. It is pointed out, in fact, that the Bulgarian government must have realized that just such an ultimatum would be forthcoming and that therefore its significance was already weighed by King Ferdinand and his advisers.

PERJURY THE CHARGE

Riggs Bank Officials Indicted by the Grand Jury.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Charles C. Glover, president of the Riggs National bank, and William H. Flather, vice president, and H. H. Flather, cashier, were indicted for alleged perjury in connection with the bank's recent suit against Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams. Four indictments were returned against each of the bank officials, who are charged with perjury in making an affidavit which set forth that the bank never had engaged in stock market transactions and had no transactions with Lewis Johnson & Company, a defunct firm of local stock brokers. Attorneys for Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams contended at the trial of the bank's suit that the books of Lewis Johnson & Company showed many transactions in the names of the bank officials named.

The indictments are a sequel to the suit of the Riggs bank which alleged that the four officials had conspired to defraud the bank by making a false affidavit. Lands Better Job.

Columbus, Oct. 1.—Dismissed because he is a Democrat from a $2,000 position as assistant director of claims in the industrial commission, Eugene Carlin of Wooster, O., has gone to work as special counsel for the commission under appointment from Attorney General Turner, a Republican. The salary of the new position is greater than the one from which he was ousted.

BY NINETY-NINE FAMILIES

One-Seventh of All the Land in New York City Is Owned.

New York, Sept. 30.—One seventh of all the land in New York city is owned by ninety-nine families, according to a statement issued by Frederick C. Leubacher, president of the Society of Lower Rents. The assessed value of the land holdings of these ninety-nine families in Manhattan alone is $444,659,212, about one-third of the value of the borough. The families with the most notable holdings are the Astors, Goetschs, Vanderbilts, Rhinelanders, McAlpins, Baulins, Renns and Winnemuccas in Nevada and Boise, Idaho, Saturday night. The center of the seismic disturbance seemed to be in Nevada, where it severed lines of communication. In Sacramento people poured from the buildings to the street. One disturbance occurred about 6 o'clock on Saturday evening, but the most violent series of shocks occurred about 11 o'clock coast time.

WEEKLY WAR REVIEW

The week ending Oct. 2 witnessed the continuation of the allies' offensive in the west and the slackening of the German offensive in western Russia. The effect of the withdrawal of troops for the contemplated Balkan campaign and of others for the strengthening of the hard pressed German armies is becoming noticeable on the eastern front. Von Hindenburg reports slow progress in the encircling movement around Dvinsk. Russians claim to have made considerable headway in Galicia. Prince Leopold's forces have made some progress in Volynia and along the Galician border line. Dvinsk and Minsk are the immediate objectives of the Teutons, who also are approaching Rowno.

Announcement of Bulgaria's active participation in the war on the side of the Teutons is expected hourly in London. The Russian minister of foreign affairs, Sergius Sazonoff, in a statement, admitted that the Balkan situation is very grave. Greece also has called its forces to the colors, stating that the object of mobilization was merely to protect the frontier. Bulgarian troops are reported to be moving in the direction of the Serbian border.

On the western front the allied offensive, begun Sept. 25, continues. In Champagne, in Artois and in the Argonne the fighting has been of a desperate character, the French claiming to have made considerable progress, capturing important positions and checking desperate counter attacks launched by the Germans. Compared with the allied capture of nearly 30,000 prisoners, 140 guns and innumerable machine guns is the Germans' claim to have taken 15,000 men and 61 machine guns.

LINDSEY AROUSED

Will Kill Next Liar Who Circulates Slandering Reports About Him.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 4.—Driven to desperation by the open and veiled attacks made upon him by his enemies, Juvenile Judge Ben B. Lindsey declared that he would take a shotgun and kill the next liar who circulates slanderous reports about him. "If there is no law to protect my reputation against perjured affidavits and criminally libelous statements I will resort to the method of the primitive and adopt the law of the jungle," he said. "I am going to get a shotgun and fill him full of lead. It is the only thing left for me to do," he declared.

The judge had just been served with a subpoena summoning him for the trial of Frank L. Rose, an evangelist, indicted by the last grand jury on a charge of criminal libel, the charge being founded on the publication by Rose of an affidavit said to have been obtained by Rose from an inmate of the reform school at Golden. The latter repudiated the affidavit and admitted that he had never seen Judge Lindsey when the latter proved that the day on which the alleged offense was said to have been committed he had been the guest of former President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay.

ENTOMBED MEN RESCUED

Caught in Tunnel of Pennsylvania Mine Last Monday.

Lansford, Pa., Oct. 4.—Nine mine workers entombed in the Foster Creek tunnel of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company at Coaldale last Monday were taken out alive Sunday evening. They were found on top of a chute in which they had crawled to escape a flood of water that had broken from an abandoned working and caused more than 300 feet of water to fall, shutting off means of escape.

The men are now in the hospital at Coaldale and reports from there hold promise that all will recover. None of them, however, was in condition to tell of their harrowing experience.

Prominent Democrat.

Massachusetts, Oct. 4.—Peter Wilhelm, sixtieth former public service commissioner and a prominent Democrat, fell dead of apoplexy at his residence.

A Strong Indorsement.

W. H. Holmes, of the Decorah, Ia., Journal says: "I have been a sufferer from Piles and Hemorrhoids for years. I got no relief until my druggist recommended Meritol Pile Remedy. Before I had taken half the package the distress was gone and I have had no trouble since. I would not take a thousand dollars and be back in my former condition. Price $1.00 Madison Drug store. ASK $60,000 FOR DEATHS

Alleged Miners Lose Lives Through Negligence of Company.

Owenton, Ky. (Special): Two cases for damages aggregating $60,000 were called for trial in the circuit court. Both are actions on tort for $30,000 for the loss of the lives of William Marlan and Bailey Hall, who died while at work for the Ohio Lead Mining company at their mines near Gratz from foul and noxious air, when the building at the north of the shaft caught fire and was destroyed in September of last year.

Hall and Marlan were, it is said, 500 feet under ground at the time. Access to the shaft became impossible, so that the entombed men were doomed to death. It was only after forty-eight hours that the bodies could be recovered. Help was summoned from the state mining office and from the fire department and from federal inspectors at Terre Haute, Ind.

To the plea for damages in the suit in defense of their interests, the defendants set up the plea that death was occasioned through contributory negligence. It is said that certain of the alleged partners deny any interest in the company.

CAN PROSECUTE REBATEES

Insurance Men Lose Suit in the Court of Appeals.

Frankfort, Ky. (Special): Life insurance agents accused of rebating premiums may be prosecuted by indictment said the court of appeals in an opinion by Chief Justice Miller, reversing the Franklin circuit court against F. M. Spiller. The latter, agent for the Ohio National Life Insurance company, was indicted on a charge of rebating a premium on a policy issued to Roy C. Gray. A demurrer was sustained to the indictment on the ground that the statute defining the offense says the fine of $500 is to be "recovered by action in the name of the commonwealth," and the court held it to limit the proceedings to penal action in the name of the commonwealth.

Louisville Detective Has Claim. Carlisle, Ky. (Special): M. J. Donahue, a detective of Louisville, filed in the Nicholas circuit court a claim for the reward of $500 offered by Governor McCreary for the arrest and conviction of the persons who killed Charles T. Royce, a Nicholas county farmer, who was killed on his farm near here last October. M. D. Donahue, a business man of Winchester, and son of the dead man, also filed his claim for the reward.

Relative Is Killed.

Owensboro, Ky. (Special): Information was received by Mrs. Mark Mayhew of the death of her husband, only nephew, Second Lieut. Dennis Theodore Smith of the Royal Engineers, on the western battle front. Mrs. Mayhew has been making preparations to join her husband, who is also on the western battle front with his regiment.

Fights Care of Consumptives.

Paducah, Ky. (Special): Bitter opposition to the plan of the local Anti-Tuberculosis association to place the maintenance of a sanatorium for those afflicted with consumption on the county has developed in the ranks of the county officials. County Judge James M. Lang being especially opposed to the idea.

Oil Development Planned.

Hickman, Ky. (Special): Since the recent discovery of oil at Reelfoot Lake, a few miles below Hickman, a company of capitalists of Clinton have formed an organization for the purpose of embarking in the oil business. The name of the new concern is the Reelfoot Lake Oil Company.

Uses Knife to Get Even.

Mayville, Ky. (Special): In the Mason circuit court Edward Stewart was sentenced to the penitentiary to serve from one to three years for cutting with intent to kill. In his testimony the negro said his mother had been killed by cutting and he thought he would kill some one else to get even.

Vandalism at Glasgow.

Glasgow, Ky. (Special): Vandalism visited the county high school grounds and smashed the ornaments at the stairway leading to the front door of the building and shattered pedestals that had just been built to beautify the campus. The authorities are at work on the case.

Freight Traffic Increases.

Middleboro, Ky. (Special): Authority reports from railroad officials indicate a decided increase in freight traffic in this section. The number of cars moving is said to be up to the record of the best times in the past. Much coal is being carried.

Lover Loves No More.

Owingsville, Ky. (Special): The romance of a five years' correspondence between L. B. Starks of Tennessee, and Miss Iva Riddle of this place, culminated in their marriage here. Neither had seen the other until about ten minutes before the wedding.

Fire Damages Farm Residence.

Springfield, Ky. (Special): Fire broke out in the hands of Geo. R. Williams. Practically all the timber was taken off this tract some thirty years ago and made into charcoal for the furnace, but much of the new growth is becoming valuable. The price paid for the half interest is not made public.—Enslin Tribune.

Aged Citizen Passes Away

Last Thursday morning the citizens of this city were painfully grieved when they learned that Mr. Alfred Douglas, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens had passed away during the early morning hour at the home of his son, Mr. Charles Douglas, on Second street. Mr. Douglas had passed the eighty-third milestone in the journey of life. Some two weeks ago he was stricken with flux and he gradually grew weaker until the end came. He passed from life into the shadowy vale of death as calmly and peacefully as the setting sun and met death as he would welcome a newly made friend.

In life we meet few such men as Mr. Douglas. He was a man possessing rare traits of character. He was prompt in his business dealing, honest, upright and generous to a fault. He was, during his early life, one of our leading contractors and builders, and a man who took a great interest in the welfare of his town and county. In every enterprise that gave promise of a better and greater Richmond, he was an earnest and ardent advocate. He did much for the moral and intellectual development of the city, and as old age gradually came upon him, he was regarded as one of our most worthy citizens, and his gray hairs were crowned with the wreaths of honor, progress and glory. In his demise the community has lost one of her most honored and respected citizens, and his children are bereft of a kind and indulgent father.

Mr. Douglas is survived by five children. They are: Mr. Charles Douglas and Mrs. R. W. Colyer, of this city; Mr. John Douglas, of Bloomington, Illinois; Mr. Zena Douglas, of Deland, Florida; Mr. Cyrus Douglas, of Seattle, Washington. His wife preceded him to the grave several years ago. The deepest sympathy of the entire community is tendered to the survivors of this good man and exemplary citizen.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Christian church, Rev. E. B. Barnes, the pastor, delivering a beautiful eulogy upon the life and character of the deceased, after which the body was conveyed to the Richmond Cemetery and laid to rest beside his wife.

A Deserved Tribute

We clip the following complimentary notice from the Frankfort State Journal under date of October 2:

"Mrs. Thomas J. Smith and Assistant Attorney General M. M. Logan left yesterday for Catlettsburg, where they will be the chief speakers at a meeting to be held this afternoon in the interest of the illiteracy campaign being conducted in Eastern Kentucky by Mrs. Cora Wilcox Stewart. Mrs. Smith will return by Richmond for a short visit to her mother and sister."

"The Ashland Independent of yesterday had the following complimentary article regarding Mr. Logan and Mrs. Smith: 'The two most distinguished speakers participating in the campaign of Kentucky Illiteracy Commission are Assistant Attorney General M. M. Logan and Mrs. Thomas J. Smith, both of whom will speak at the court house in Catlettsburg Saturday afternoon. General Logan was born and reared in Edmonson county, receiving his education in the public and private schools of that locality and he has won for himself a most distinguished position as a member of the Kentucky bar. For the past four years he has held the office of First Assistant Attorney General of the State, and throughout his term of office he has been active in the work of the Illiteracy Commission and one of the most enthusiastic supporters."

"Mrs. Smith has a wide acquaintance among the club women. She is prominently identified with the State Fair and with educational interests in Kentucky. She is a granddaughter of Cassius M. Clay. She is a typical Kentucky woman, modest, gracious and charming. She speaks with ease, having a fine flow of language, a voice clear as a bell and splendid delivery. Her prominence inures her a large audience."

"A reception by club women of Catlettsburg, assisted by a number from Ashland, is being planned in honor of Mrs. Smith, after her lecture."

Big Land Deal

Clyde Gaines, Jas. Wallace, Dr. C. Marcum and C. P. Mapel have purchased the one-half interest of S. M. Mapel in the large tract of land in the northeastern part of the county, known as the Cottage Grove tract, which contains about 5,000 acres. The other half is owned by Geo. R. Williams. Practically all the timber was taken off this tract some thirty years ago and made into charcoal for the furnace, but much of the new growth is becoming valuable. The price paid for the half interest is not made public.—Enslin Tribune.

"HYPOCRITES"

This most objectionable film which has been running throughout the United States, was played at the Alhambra Theatre in this city last Friday during the day and night, without molestation from the constituted authorities. In fact, a board of censors passed the same. It was patronized by a liberal attendance of the best people of the city.

Perhaps the vulgarity of the show was its least objectionable feature. The tenor of the whole play was a damnable assault on christianity and society. Even the purity of love did not escape its blight.

A young preacher, floundering in the breakers of his own miserable mistakes and misconceptions of the world, lacking mental poise and unable to see the beauties of the full and even tide of life, uses the talents which God has given him to chisel a nude woman as his conception of Truth. The figure is veiled and at the appointed time, in the presence of a large crowd assembled to do honor to his talents, the veiling is removed, exposing its hideous vulgarity. Decency is outraged, purity awed, the people abashed. Indignation fans itself into a furious passion and under its sudden impulse, the people destroy the statue and kill the preacher. The pictures depict the resurrection, the re-incarnation of Truth appearing to the world in the form of a nude woman walking in the woods, always present but ever elusive, like the rainbow to be seen but never to be touched. The preacher and a few faithful worshippers, follow this nude figure, first along the avenues and and pleasant roads, then up the rugged mountain side where the earth breaks with them and rocks fall on and hurt them till at last all have fallen by the wayside but the phantom figure and the preacher. Truth plays a hide and seek game but at last allows the preacher to speak to her. He says, "Since my people will not come to you will you not come to them?" Consenting, Truth returns to the valley, visits the homes, public halls and places of the people and is rejected by them all.

In the whole of this, there is a vicious assault on estate, church, home, truth, honor and elasticity. The world is pictured as a mass of corruption. Even the blissful lover's kiss, the impress of soul purity, becomes the withering touch of sensuality. The pictures make vulgarity the symbol of Truth, purity, the abiding place of lust; the smile of the world, the scowl of hate; the glorious sun of righteousness, the midnight of despair.

Some people believe that to teach a moral lesson, a loathsome perversion of truth must be taken as an object of comparison and to this class of philosophers, "Hypocrites" is a great story. The most violent poisons carefully used by eminent physicians can be made to serve a good purpose; but in the hands of ignorance they are most destructive of life. "Hypocrites" played to unthinking, undiscriminating minds, leaves the impress of a corrupt state, church, home and society. Impressionable childhood will have every religious instinct blighted while not an adult will be benefited. The harm that this picture does will linger long and by it many a soul will be forever damned.

That the State and Church need an awakening no one doubts. They must

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury
as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. A Live Talk

Geoffrey Morgan, of Madison county, State Agent of Farmers' Co-operative Demonstration Work, made an informal talk at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday evening on "Co-operation Between Town and Country." Mr. Morgan is a young man of delightful personality and an attractive speaker and the fact that he "does things" gives weight to his utterances. He spoke of the farming of Woodford county as so many "factories" that were not producing a maximum output and told how the business men of Versailles could help increase this production and how the farmers could help make Versailles a better town. He advocated farmers clubs in the country and business men's clubs in town and a union of these organizations.

Jas. M. McKee, A. C. Hunter, M. P. Lancaster, John U. Field and Bradley Wilson, of Lexington, spoke briefly at the close of Mr. Morgan's address.

It was decided to have a meeting of merchants and farmers in Versailles Tuesday evening, Oct. 12, with a view to putting into effect some of Mr. Morgan's suggestions.—Woodford Sun.

The Colds Of Mankind Cured By Pines!

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse is sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities. Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey-possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attack against cold germs. Every family needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c. adv.

NOTICE TO THE VOTERS

Sept. 30, 1915
To The Voters of Madison County

I am addressing you in the interest of my candidacy to represent the county in the next Legislature. I wish to say I have always had a desire to represent the county in that body, because of my varied experience in matters pertaining to what I deem to be for the best interests of the State.

In the first place, I was born and reared upon the farm and am still a farmer, believe I know what is the best interests of the farmers, and at the same time, believe there should be nothing passed through and enacted into legislation that would prove detrimental to other callings or legitimate business of any kind; and having been engaged as a merchant and having a general knowledge of business, and the needs of the general public, I believe I can represent all classes fairly and to the best interests of the State.

For many years I have taught in the public schools of the county, as to my qualifications and ability to represent the county, refer to those who know me best. I have never in my life tasted intoxicating liquors, and believe in the strict enforcement of the County Unit Law, and favor the enforcement of all laws.

I favor a better taxing system, and lower taxes; longer school terms and few changes in school books; last but not least, I believe in good roads economically constructed.

While I have always affiliated with the Republican party, I am not a partisan and do not entertain bitter feelings for the Democracy, and will greatly appreciate any Democratic aid that may be given me.

I solicit your votes irrespective of party, and if elected, shall endeavor to act honestly in the discharge of my duties that come upon me, doing in every instance what I deem to be the best interests of all;

Yours Truly,
G. B. Moore.

MARRIED Mr. Leslie Turpin and Miss Mary Lee Douglas, prominent young people, surprised their many friends by hieing themselves to Lexington and being married at the Phoenix Hotel on last Thursday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Douglas of this city, is highly cultured, and a most winsome and attractive young lady. The groom is a young man of sterling worth and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Turpin, of near this city. Both the bride and groom are popular young people and have the best wishes of a large circle of friends. The happy couple spent several days in Louisville at the Seelback, after which they returned to this city, and will be at home to their friends on Second street after October 7. The Climax-Madisonian, with a legion of friends, extends hearty congratulations.

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Genevieve Conway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Conway, of Winchester, to Mr. Jerry Keller, of Richmond, was made Sunday morning in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Winchester. Miss Conway is an attractive young lady and popular with all who know her. Mr. Keller is a mail carrier in this city and a splendid fellow. The wedding will be solemnized about the middle of October.

At a party given Thursday afternoon at the home of T. L. Maupin, the engagement of his daughter, Bertha Frances, and John Muffley was announced, the wedding to take place in the near future. The dining room was decorated in yellow and white, covers being laid for twelve young ladies. In the center of the table on a large lake stood a bowl filled with yellow and white Dahlias, from which ran yellow ribbons to each plate, where the favors were dished, bearing the card of the prospective bride and groom. A luncheon was served and the "cat" was let out of the bag—Shirley (Illinois) Times.

Four Bounced

Four students at the Kentucky State University were expelled last week for alleged "hazing" in cutting freshmen's hair. The four sophomores expelled, it is said, were recognized by one of the victims. He resisted and was so badly beaten he had to be taken to the hospital. There was talk of a strike on the part of the students because of the dismissal of the four sophomores, but President Barker stood pat and the better judgment of the students prevailed. President Barker is to be congratulated for his firm stand against hazing.

Kills Scott County Man.

Newt Cheneault, colored, a well known character formerly of this county, shot and killed Luther Hammons, a colored man, near Donerail, in Scott county, Saturday morning, using a double-barreled shot gun. Details of the tragedy are meagre. Cheneault skipped and has not been apprehended by the officers.

Big Cattle Deal

Mr. Alex Gibbs, of this county, weighed up last week 132 head of cattle, averaging 1,530 pounds, at $5.50. Mr. Joe Bales, local buyer, was the purchaser. Mr. Gibbs had been feeding these cattle for some months and had put on an average of 401. This is the largest and best bunch of cattle put on the market by any single individual for some time. The cattle as a whole weighed 201,960 pounds, and brought the magnificent sum of $17,168.20.

Court Day.

Monday was county court day and a large number of cattle, horses and mules were on the market. Cattle brought good prices and there were nearly 5,000 head on the market, but trading was not quite so brisk as during September court day. The greater portion of the stock was feeders and of an inferior quality. Prices ranged from 6 to 7 cts. The horse and mule market was unusually quiet, although a large number were here, but very little trading and selling took place. Rain greatly interfered with the buying and selling and made it very disagreeable for the large crowd present.

Memorial of Richmond Lodge

No. 25, F. & A. M.

On Thursday, September 20th, Alfred Douglas passed away in his eighty-third year, after a brief illness.

Brother Douglas was born in Madison county and lived the whole of his long life in this county. He was the last of his generation. He had an illustrious name and possessed many of the sterling qualities of his race. A gentleman all ways, quiet and dignified in his bearing, firm and yet considerate. A man of positive convictions, both political and religious, yet absolutely tolerant towards others. He always stood for the right as he saw it. For years Brother Douglas was a contractor. He had dealings in many ways with many men, and never was a man known to oblige him with a failure to do his work or keep his word. His name became a synonym for integrity and square work.

Surely, as the wise man hath said, "A good name is to be desired above great riches." His last work was the superintending of the erection of the new Christian Church, of which religious organization he had been for many years a faithful member. In this he took great pride. He loved this church as his church, and the building he knew was to stand as a monument for years to come.

He was made a Mason in Waco Lodge about 1870, but many years ago transferred his membership to Richmond Lodge. Brethren, he is gone from us, but his memory will remain. Let us cherish it and resolve to imitate his virtues, because his life was an exemplification of all that is best in our Order.

Church Notes

Rev. W. S. Taylor, of this city, and Rev. English, of Berea, are holding a protracted meeting at the Baptist church at Buckeye in Harrodsburg.

The Presbyterian, Christian and Baptist churches of this city united with the Methodist church in the Sunday evening meetings. The object was to welcome to this city the new Methodist Pastor, Rev. M. S. Clark. The service was a most enjoyable one. Revs. Barnes, Telford and Reynolds were warm in their kindly greetings and felicitations. Rev. Clark delivered an unusually strong sermon on "Sin." His offering shows that he is a fearless man of God. Richmond is to be congratulated on the strength of its ministry. The devil will be cornered here this year if the people heed.

PHREYTERIAN CHURCH NOTES.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered in connection with the morning service next sabbath.

Among the speakers who will be heard at the meeting of the Synod of Kentucky next week, will be Dr. Ganfield, President of Center College, whose address on Thursday evening will be followed by a stenographic lecture by Rev. Dr. H. F. Willard.

Wednesday afternoon and evening will be devoted to conference on Sabbath school work, at which time some interesting speakers will be heard.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Subject Sunday morning, "The Tragic and Sublime in the Cross. Evening a special service will be announced later. Watch for it. All invited.

At the First Christian church Turkey's men met Tuesday night, for an open session. About fifty were present. Fourteen of the good women of the church prepared an elegant dinner and served it beautifully. Rev. E. B. Barnes presided as master of ceremonies. Speeches were made by Prof. Stott, Dr. McNeagle, R. E. Turley and Col. T. E. Baldwin. This class will attend in a body the Sunday night services of the church.

All heads of families are requested to buy the Golden Sun coffee and save the coupons, with which to pay for the handsome coffee urn. A vote of thanks for the splendid supper was given the ladies and Mrs. R. E. Turley made a neat little speech on behalf of the ladies.

A telephone was ordered to be put in for the benefit of the Ladies Aid at the church. Mesdames James Dykes, J. A. Moore, James H. Allman, Elmer Deatherage, C. F. Higgins, S. J. McGaughey, Elmer Tate, Jno. W. Arnold, Joe Boggs, W. S. Broadus M. M. Dickerson, R. E. Turley and S. P. Deatherage prepared and served the dinner.

Rev. Fred Sanders and V. L. Moore of this county have just concluded a very successful revival at Nonesuch in Woodford county. 75 persons united with the church.

Rev. Green is holding a revival at the Friendship Baptist church in this county and much interest is manifested in the same.

Rev. Fred Sanders commenced a series of meetings at the Slick Rock Christian Church last Tuesday night. He is just starting in the ministry and gives promise of a brilliant future. He is a son of Thomas Sanders of Delphia.

Avoid the chilly morning by using Cole's Hot Blast stove Heaters. They prevent colds and sickness. Oldham & Harber, Agents.

Dr. Wood Speaks.

Dr. J. E. Wood, a colored divine and editor of the Torchlight, whose residence is Danville, delivered an address at the court house on Saturday night for the Republican ticket. There was a goodly number of the colored brethren present, but only thirteen white persons by actual count.

Again Flooded.

A heavy rain passed over the southwestern section of the county on Monday afternoon, doing considerable damage to roads, bridges and crops. Paint Lick was again flooded, the crest of the flood being almost as high as that attained last summer, when great damage was done to that thriving little village. Considerable damage was done by the rain in many parts of the county, especially in the southern and eastern sections, and many roads became impassable in many places, owing to the high water mark reached by creeks and branches.

Circuit Court In Session.

The October term of the Madison Circuit Court convened Tuesday morning, Judge J. M. Benton presiding. In his instructions to the grand jury, Judge Benton dwelt on gambling and vice of all kinds, but his principal topic was directed toward election frauds. He read the instructions delivered by Judge Kerr to the Fayette county grand jury, and also the charge of Judge Gregory, of Louisville, to the Jefferson county grand jury. Taken as a whole, the instructions delivered by Judge Benton to the Madison county grand jury, elicited upon a high plane and he was commended by every honest thinking person.

The following gentlemen were called grand jury: T. M. Oldham, W. H. Tate, Jake Baxter, A. J. Bush, Sanders, W. H. Park, Nat Cotton, L. Hamilton, T. E. B. Deatherage, L. M. Minter, and C. Foreman.

The following, John E. Sexton, poss. the petit, Moberly, Joe Broad Perry Powell, J. O. Yates, R. A. Duke, Hammon, C. F. Higgins, Cosby, Hix, G. B. Turley, Jerry Hock, Robert M. W. Covington, L. E. Barkersmith, Moore, Thomas Williams, J. H. Tate, W. B. Arbuckle, David R. J. Moore, C. W. Moore, J. W. Martin, C. Broadus, W. O. Burke, T. J. Canary, John McCord and Jerry Noland.

Delivers Fine Address

Hon. James D. Black, Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor, spoke to a large and enthusiastic crowd at the court house in this city Monday at 2 o'clock. It was court day and a large crowd was in town and the lower court room was packed to overflowing. Many women were present to hear this distinguished son of Kentucky. Judge Black is an able and entertaining speaker and charmed all who heard him. He dealt upon the issues of the campaign and defended in a masterly style the principles and actions of the Democratic party and was roundly applauded. Judge Black has many friends in this community and he will add much strength to the ticket throughout Eastern Kentucky.

In Demand

Roscoe Gilmore Stott, head of the English Department of the State Normal, has received a somewhat flattering invitation. He has been asked by President Hendricks, of the Missouri State Normal, at Warrensburg, to come out to that institution and give a special series of lectures on English. This institution is one of the greatest State Normals in the country. It is a pioneer in educational matters and has an enormous faculty and student body. Mr. Stott will accept. He will probably go later in the year.

Mr. Stott will attend a meeting of the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. of which he is a member, at Lexington next Friday evening. Mr. Berzhold, the State Student Secretary, will be the host at a dinner to the committee to be given at the Phoenix. On the evening of the 14th Mr. Stott has been asked to address the Brotherhood of the First Methodist Church of Georgetown. This organization will have as guests the churches of all the churches in the city and the men students of Georgetown College. The women of the church will serve refreshments. Mr. Stott will use his chautauqua lecture, "The Pillar Lifter."

On last Sunday evening Mr. Stott spoke before a large audience at Sullivan Hall, addressing the Y. W. C. A., using the unique topic, "Pigs."

To Be Married October 21

The following invitations has been issued: "Mrs. Elmer Berry requests your presence at the marriage of her niece, Clint Berry Cunningham, to Mr. George William Jackson, at Juniper Hill, Thursday, evening at 8 o'clock, October 21, 1915, Frankfort, Ky." Cards reading as follows were enclosed with the invitations. At home, after November 15, 24 Saragossa Street, St. Augustine, Fla.—Louisville Herald.

The first fall meeting of the Boonesborough Chapter was held with Mrs. Sam Phelps, at her home in the country, on Saturday afternoon. The attendance was unusually large and the program given by Mrs. A. R. Burnam, Mrs. E. T. Burnam and Mrs. J. W. Caperton was full of interest. The first paper read by the regents was a tribute to the late Mrs. Walworth, a prominent member of the D. A. R., and a woman of lofty character. The second, given by Mrs. Caperton, was a recital of the experience of Mrs. Margaret Paule, one of the pioneer women, on her way from Virginia to Kentucky. This article was dictated by Mrs. Paule to her grandson, Allen Caperton, an ancestor of the late Col. J. W. Caperton, and hence was of special interest. The current events were charmingly given by Mrs. E. T. Burnam, who injected her strong personality into her recital of the same.

The last and very delightful number on the program, was the delicious lunch of salads and ices to which the guests did ample justice.

Mrs. Warfield, was hostess of an informal, but charming Bridge Party on Tuesday afternoon, given in compliment to Mrs. Carlo B. Brittain, of Washington City.

A real treat was given the music lovers of Richmond, on Friday evening, when the Federated Clubs held an open session in the Normal Chapel. The four musical clubs of the city, the Sherwood, the Cecilia, the Apollo, and the Mary Patten, all took part and gave the public a beautiful program. Prof. J. G. Koch and Miss Eva Wright, of the Department of Music of the Eastern State Normal, very kindly assisted and added to the pleasure of the evening. Following is the program in full:

- Piano Solo—Murmuring Zephyrs
- Vocal Solo—Selected—Miss Davison
- Piano Solo—Selected—Miss Denece
- Miss Alice Clark Kellogg
- Vocal Solo—From a Persian Garden
- Piano and Cello—Mrs. Irvine Ballard

Club Notes

The Alumnae Club of State University is asking the Federated Clubs to join in a movement to form a "Woman's Aid" for the university work. It is proposed this year to have a library of some description raised club, where there is the Herald of Sunday in the Library of Mrs. Thomas J. Smith, the newly appointed chairman of the Policy Science Committee of the Federated Clubs.

The meeting of the Richmond Women's Club will be held on Monday afternoon, Oct. 11, at half past two at the club rooms.

At the meeting of the D. A. R. Saturday, the following ladies were elected to represent the Boonesborough Chapter at the State Meeting in Frankfort the last of October: Mesdames C. D. Cheneault, Geo. Phelps, Hugh Bates, Lewis Neale, Jas. W. Caperton, E. T. Burnam, Will Collins, Grant E. Lilly, and Misses Laura Bright and Jennie Parks.

Johnson county is to establish 100 moonlight schools. Those who made speeches in the interest of the same on last Friday were: Prof. T. J. Coates, Superintendent Meade, and Rev. Stambaugh. There is to be a great rally at the court house, at Cattlesburg Saturday at which time Mrs. T. J. Smith, Hon. M. M. Logan and Judge John F. Hagar, will speak.

The Women's Club, of Lancaster, is working with the commercial club in raising money to be used in the Park Improvement. Large sums have been subscribed for this purpose.

STAR

CHEWING TOBACCO

LEADING BRAND OF THE WORLD

"Cheer Up, Brother.
Take a Chew of STAR
and Forget It."

THEY'LL never "get your goat" if you have a chew of STAR in your cheek. You "forget it" the minute you set your teeth on the juicy STAR plug.

The naturally sweet leaf in STAR is developed to an even deliciousness throughout. This is retained to the last chew by the three-quarter inch thickness that can't dry out like a thin plug. And every STAR plug is always a full 16 ounce pound.

Men Who Chew Are Men Who DO

If your work keeps you from smoking—chew STAR. If you're smoking too much or chewing too strong a tobacco—change off to mild, mellow STAR.

16 oz. Plugs 10c Cuts
Laggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

STAR was awarded the Grand Prize at the San Francisco Exposition, and is the only chewing tobacco that has ever received this highest possible award.

HINTS FOR FALL WORK IN THE GARDENS

If the Cabbages Are Slow About Heading or the Heads Lack Firmness, Sprinkle With Salt and Water.

If the garden has been thoroughly cultivated early in the season, there is little weeding to be done. Yet, a few autumn weeds will strive for supremacy unless conquered. One of the most persistent now, as earlier, is the chickweed, which grows in such dense masses as to choke out everything else. Keep it cleaned out. If thrown into a pile it will be decomposed in a few weeks into a light soil, rich in humus.

If an early frost catches the beans before they are quite ripe, shell, scald, and dry, and they will keep during the winter.

An old blanket, papers or straw used in protecting the tomatoes from the first frost may prolong them through weeks of good weather yet to follow.

If the cabbages are slow about heading, or the heads lack firmness sprinkle with salt and water. This will also tend to keep the worms down.

If a few cucumbers get too large for ordinary use before you discover them, pare, slice in cross sections an inch thick, soak in salt water a few hours, and make into sweet pickles. They are delicious.

A few rows of strawberries along the edge of the garden will not require much extra labor, and they will add greatly to the luxuries of farm life. One man, who tried the experiment of seven rows last year, reports that because you have plenty of land do not think it is of no value. Have you used your garden to the utmost capacity? Intensive gardening has already come where there is most profit in the occupation. If you have not applied this principle, see how you can get more out of the ground next year.

Dandelions are coming into general use in America for salad greens. The flavor is greatly improved by blanching the leaves. To do this, place an inverted flower pot over each plant for a while before the leaves are gathered. This salad is greatly enjoyed in Europe.

Before applying liquid manure to plants the soil should be moistened by watering with clear water, unless the soil is already moist. Apply the liquid manure to the soil without sprinkling it over the plants.

Where manure is available, a spadeful or more tied up in coarse sacking, suspended in a tub of water affords a good way to make the liquid.

After strawberry plants have borne the second season's crop remove them and plant some other crop on this land. Set out a new bed of strawberries from the runners from the old vines on another new piece of ground.

Holland bulbs now are exported all over the world and if the demand continues to increase either prices will likely advance or new territory will have to be found to propagate them.

Viola cornuta purpurea somewhat resembles the single blue violet, producing flowers freely on long, slender stems, making them desirable for cutting. The culture is the same as that given pansies.

Autumn bulb planting will soon be here; make an early selection of the ones you want, thus securing the best specimens. Planting is not to be done until the late frosts, when the beds now in use will be unoccupied and ready for the bulbs. Beds planted this autumn will begin flowering almost before the snow disappears in the spring. This is a good time to thoroughly clean the greenhouse, to put in new glass where needed, repoint and paint the roof, and look out for leaks.

Plant sweet peas in the open ground next November and thus secure an early crop of flowers next year.

Bond Issue Carried.

Last Thursday the voters of Lexington and Fayette county, at a special election, approved the proposition to authorize the Fiscal Court to issue $300,000 in 20-year serial bonds with which to construct and reconstruct the roads of the county. Twenty six votes more than the two-thirds required by Sec. 157, Kentucky Constitution were polled. In the city of Lexington the returns showed that the voters were overwhelmingly in favor of the proposition to bond the county for good roads. The seventeen precincts, outside of the city, however, largely cut down the majority.

Crooke, sheriff of the Citizens National Bank; Mr. Paul Burnham, cashier of the Southern National Bank; and Mr. R. E. Freley, cashier of the State Bank & Trust Company, were on hand before the election fraud which is being investigated by Judge Shackelford was in the grand jury room. Fifty minutes and a grand smiling. It is unofficially stated that none of the gentlemen before the inquirers were able to give any light on the subject.

Bit By Copperhead
Mr. John Allin, of High Bridge, while about the work on his place several days ago, was bitten on the foot by a copperhead snake, which got away. His foot and leg began to swell shortly afterward until it finally became about twice its normal size and Mr. Allin suffered intense pain. The physicians in attendance feared the member would have to be amputated in order to save Mr. Allin's life, and several met there for the purpose of performing the operation yesterday morning. As the Herald went to press a message from High Bridge stated that after a thorough examination it was decided not to remove the leg at present, but the foot was split open and an effort will be made to drain the snake's poison out in that way, and if it is successful Mr. Allin's leg will not have to be amputated. His friends hope that his recovery will be sure and soon.—Harrodsburg Herald.

SYSTEM SCORES.

Suggestions About Planning Work to Avoid Dredgery.

CERTAIN HOUSEHOLD TRICKS.

The Principles "Don't Dawdle" and "Let Your Head Save Your Heels" Applied to Housework Establishes Routine Without Lessening Comfort.

How best to arrange one's work that the minimum of time and strength may produce the maximum of comfort is a problem solvable only by system. All work becomes much easier if it follows a routine enabling one to turn from duty to duty without stopping to think what comes next or how to do it. The two rules of the old New England housekeeper who thought of little else but housekeeping are as good today as they were fifty years ago—"Don't dawdle," "Let your head save your heels."

Certain tasks must be done every day. Meals must be prepared, dishes washed, dusting done, beds made, and so on. By going about these always in the same order they will soon be dispatched, and then there is time for the special task assigned to that day. Breakfast should be a simple meal, and any housekeeper with a gas stove should have it ready in half an hour; with other fuel more time must be given.

Each member of the family leaves beds airing when he or she goes to breakfast. When the meal is eaten food is set away, dishes are piled for washing, set into the pan with hot water over them to wait until fruit of house is in order.

Daily sofa pillows are shaken, polished floors dusted with a dry mop, carpet sweeper run over rugs, finger marks wiped from doors and the furniture and floor boards wiped superficially. The thorough cleaning comes on its appointed day. Less than ten minutes given regularly to a room will keep it neat.

The hall should be early attended to, and if one has time it is well to do it before breakfast. The order of work should be hall, living room, upstairs, dining room, kitchen. It will not take over an hour for all to the kitchen if it goes steadily on and one loses no steps or motions.

There is an old prejudice in favor of Monday as wash day, but the housekeeper who will devote Monday to cleaning up the extra confusion from Sunday, when every one is at home, will find herself in better trim at the end of the week.

As she goes through the rooms she collects articles for the wash, taking out stains, taking the elitch or two that will be ten if left untaken. Then she sorts the clothes for the wash and puts them to soak, the very soiled by themselves.

Tuesday she draws the dirty water from the tub first of all and replaces it with clean, soapy, hot water. Generally she rises a little earlier to get things well started. She bangs her clothes to dry smoothly and puts things of the same kind together. She folds them as she takes them from the line. Wednesday she irons, and as she does she puts on the same rod of the clothes horse all the things that need a stitch; she sorts as she irons.

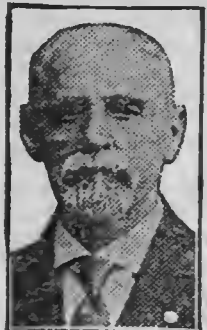

Thursday is reserved for any odd jobs about the house like cleaning silver, mirrors, globes, windows, finishing the left over ironing. If any, taking the stitches needed for hosiery or other things and putting away the clothes from the laundry. Friday is a genuine cleaning day.

Saturday is a day of preparation for the Sunday, which in many families is the hardest day of the week. The wee housekeeper plans for her rest on that day. She prepares her soup, roast, dessert, on Saturday; the vegetable is a salad or something quickly cooked; the roast may be finished on Sunday, but should be partly cooked the day before.

With her Sunday rest and change of thought the housekeeper can begin her week serene and happy.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

Peter Radford
On Too Many Lawyers.

When the sheriff cries out "Oh yes, Oh yes, the court is now in session," the farmer should tighten the belt around his belly for it is he who pays the cost. When the lawyer says "May it please the court," the farmer has to shorten the shirt of his children for they must foot the bill and when the legislature announces "Be it enacted," unborn babes may well kick against their prison walls for they may live to pay the penalty. We have too many laws, too many lawyers and too much government. No man here to run a business without lawyers to the right of him and lawyers to the left of him. Expensive litigation and excessive legislation are clogging the wheels of progress. To meet this situation the railroads are oftentimes compelled to take off a train and put on a lawyer; the farmer is oftentimes compelled to close down a furnace and put on a lawyer; the manufacturer is oftentimes compelled to sell a steer to pay the lawyers for the man who digs in the ground usually pays the freight and every article which he buys carries on the price tag court costs and lawyers' fees.

There are in the United States 115,000 lawyers and about twenty thousand courts of various jurisdiction which cost the people of this nation approximately $1,500,000,000 per annum. It costs more to run the legal affairs in this nation than it does to clothe all the people. It costs more to settle legal disputes than it does to run our educational and religious institutions and care for the health of all the people combined. Less than three per cent of our population are able to employ lawyers to interpret the mass of legal force that burdens our statute books. The remaining ninety-seven per cent have to take the raw stuff out of the mill.

We are a government by lawyers and for lawyers. It is they who are responsible for the legislative curals, espionage, unrest and business disturbance that infect our statute books, for at the source of most every law is a lawyer. They have in no case lowered the price of the commodity or benefited the people but they have burdened industry and restrained commerce and have built up their profession until it dominates government, tyrannizes business and terrorizes progress.

There is no more valuable citizen in our land than a patriotic, able, conscientious lawyer, seeking to direct the ship of state through the tortuous channels of 20th century civilization; piloting a business through the legislative billows that dash with maddened fury across its pathway and whose genius can calm the fear and command the confidence of the people in the integrity of Republican institutions, but there is no greater peril to society than a political lawyer who seeks to prostitute government, stain business with suspicion and arouse distrust in the minds of the people. Unfortunately the latter class are a strong factor in the profession, oftentimes in high places, and unless the better class unite in driving the quacks from their midst an outraged public opinion will administer a rebuke that will humble the pride, crush the hope and smash the power of the profession and reduce its possibilities to ashes.

THE DIAMOND DRILL MAN.
HE'S cut as clean as a new made coin
As he stands in the muck, hair dressed;
He's broad of shoulder and lean of loins
That's him at the jumbie's breast.
He battles against the solid rock.
Down there where it's damp and chilly;
He's born of the Ne'erquitting lightning stock
In Jim of the diamond drill.

If there's ever a vein that's gone and pinched,
Or doped to an unknown place,
Just send for Jim and the rest is clinched.

The lead shall be caught again;
For the rocks they whisper strange things to Jim.
In the heart of the unmined hill,
And there's never a secret withheld from him—
From Jim of the diamond drill.

THE rest of the shift fit through the gloom
Like specters in vaulted grave;
The roar of the blast sweeps through the tomb
On a sulphur perfumed wave;
And the gold goes out unto mint and mart,
The treasure for which men kill,
Because in the mountain's granite heart
Tolls Jim of the diamond drill.

THE LAND OF "PRETTY SOON."

I KNOW of a land where the streets are Further at night than the noon.
It is walled with the money we meant
To have and the pleasures for which we grieve.

THE kind words unspoken, the promises
Broken,
And many a coveted boon
Are stored away there in that land somewhere—
The land of "Pretty Soon."

THERE are uncut jewels of possible fame
Lying about in the dust,
And many a noble and lofty aim
Covered with mold and rust.

AND, oh, this place, while it seems so near,
Is further away than the moon!
Though our purpose is fair, yet we never get there—
The land of "Pretty Soon."

IT is farther at noon than it is at dawn,
Farther at night than the noon.
Oh, let us beware of that land down there—
The land of "Pretty Soon!"

RAIN AND TEARS.

FATHER, the rain you send us is so clean
And sweet and cool; the dust that detracts
Of grass and tree is washed away and then
The world seems glowing clean and bright again.

Father, the tears you send us are so sad,
But maybe from our hearts they wash away
The evil that had hidden all our glad,
The old, obscuring darkness of our day.

Father, the storms you send us are so fierce,
But in the clearing sunlight after them
We see the shafts of beauty, how they Pierce
The gloom and turn each cloud a diadem.

Father, the griefs you send us are so sharp,
And yet they leave us, after all, so bright,
That through us sings the music of a harp
Struck by some hand of glory in the light.

Wash us with rain or wash us with these tears,
It seems the same conclusion of the years,
That all which comes in judgment on us is
A clean refreshment of the impartial skies

PEACE.
WHAT was the first prophetic word that rang
When down the starry sky the angels
rang
That night they came as envoys of the birth—
What word but peace, "peace and good will on earth?"

AND what was the last word the Master said
That parting night when they broke brotherhood,
That night he knew men would not let him live—
Oh, his "Peace I leave" and "peace
I give!"

AND yet behold; near twice a thousand years
And still the battle wrath, the grief, the tears,
Let mercy speed the hour when swords shall cease
And mercy back to God, "There shall be peace!"
—Edwin Markham.

FROM REPORT OF KENTUCKY TAX COMMISSION, 1909.

"There are two reasons why the general property tax has failed in operation. First, because under modern conditions it cannot be enforced effectively. Secondly, because of a more or less conscious recognition of the fact that strict enforcement would result in a still greater injustice than now prevails."

"The attempt to tax all property at a uniform standard of valuation and at the same rate, regardless of its special characteristics, earning power or the benefits derived from the expenditures of government, violates the primary rules of just taxation and offends the natural sense of justice."

TAX AMENDMENT

TO BE VOTED ON AT THE NOVEMBER ELECTION.

The Tax Amendment to be again voted on at the November Election will, if adopted, authorize the Legislature to enact a new Tax Law that will subject the enormous amount of personal property in the shape of Stocks, Bonds, Notes and accounts now escaping taxation to a fair share of the burden and reduce the taxes on Land and Improvements. Every taxpayer should vote for it, as any Law enacted under its provisions must be ratified by the people before it can be enforced and this guarantee a fair law.

The Amendment.

"The General Assembly shall provide by law an annual tax, which, with other resources, shall be sufficient to defray the estimated expenses of the Commonwealth for each fiscal year. Taxes shall be levied and collected for public purposes only and shall be uniform upon all property of the same class subject to taxation within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax; and all taxes shall be levied and collected by general laws."

"The General Assembly shall have power to divide property into classes and to determine what class or classes of property shall be subject to local taxation. Bonds of the State and of Counties, municipalities, taxing and school districts shall not be subject to taxation."

"Any law passed or enacted by the General Assembly pursuant to the provisions of or under this amendment or amended section of the constitution, classifying property and providing a lower rate of taxation on personal property, tangible or intangible, than that upon real estate, shall be subject to the referendum power of the people."

This amendment was ratified by an enormous majority at the election in 1912, but was pronounced invalid by the Court of Appeals because it had been advertised only sixty, instead of ninety, days as the Constitution provides.

It has been advertised in legal form and in time for this year's election and should receive a larger majority than before, as Tax paying voters have had time to study the question and discover the faults in the present Tax Law.

REPORT OF WISCONSIN TAX COMMISSION.

"Justice in taxation can only be attained by strict compliance with the law. This is proven by universal experience. There is no other way. With rare exceptions, when an assessor violates the law and sets up a standard of his own he either inflicts an injury upon some individual taxpayer or else he does injustice to every other taxpayer in the State. As a general rule, every step he takes outside the straight and narrow path provided by law leads to greater and more glaring inequalities, and in many cases . . . degenerates into a mere travesty on justice."

THE CITY

GOOD STREET LIGHTING
IN AMERICAN CITIES.

Development in America Has Been Marvelous in Past Quarter Century.

Around the world progressive American cities are noted especially for good street lighting. It is not the White Ways of the big cities that deserve this comment as much as the second and third cities, like Syracuse, Scranton, Rochester, Schenectady, Toledo and Denver, where street lighting is the lure which draws purchasers to the city markets from distances within a radius of more than 100 miles. Street lighting is the barometer of the city's growth—the more lighting you see the more you are certain that the city is booming. This expression is not original. It is the first test of a city's capacity for new population, new factories, new industries always estimated by the capitalist.

In the last twenty-five years the growth of street lighting in American cities has not been short of marvelous. The strides in brightening up thriving municipalities today cannot be measured. The great electric companies are kept constantly on the move building power and light plants and installing extensive lighting systems throughout the country. City research reports of recent years all attest to the fact that the better lighted cities are getting the population and, what is most essential for healthy city growth, the business. Without the latter a city will not grow, and without modern street lighting investors of money are not attracted.

Unless the streets are brightly and attractively lighted so that it is both pleasant and safe to be on them at night people find no advantage in living in the city.

City after city has demonstrated the fact that streets which are practically deserted after sundown can be enlivened by the installation of attractive lighting. In any city only those streets which are well lighted are busy after dark. Only a block or two from the "great white way" in New York streets which, in comparison with Broadway, are dimly lighted are found nearly deserted, though great crowds are surging along New York's brightly lighted and celebrated thoroughfare.

Good street lighting always pays in dollars and cents. Street lighting which is attractive at night and the equipment which makes a good appearance in the daytime makes a good impression. This good impression attracts desirable business. It increases real estate values and puts new life in streets which would otherwise die at sunset.

A well lighted city is always a clean city. The civic pride aroused by the well lighted streets prevents the accumulation of rubbish in the street. The lights prompt men to "brush up" and keep their premises cleaner.

Ornamental street lighting encourages the people living in the surrounding towns to come to the city for their amusements. It also attracts the attention of persons passing through the city and causes them to make favorable comments about the progressiveness of the city.

These comments advertise a city as "active" or "dead," and on the reputation a city has in this respect depends the attraction of new industries and new citizens.

One other very important feature that adds to the city's welfare is the safety that results from well lighted streets. The brighter the lights the less likelihood of theft and other crimes. The more lights a city burns the fewer policemen it needs and the timelier may be its police stations.

BEAUTIFUL

VILLAGE PLAYGROUNDS
A MODERN NEED.

They May Be Brought About by Intelligent and Efficient Planning.

A contributor to the Philadelphia Public Ledger deplors the lack of playgrounds in our small towns and villages and gives the following suggestions for starting a movement to secure such a playground in a small community:

How shall the work be started? Convince a few just persons of the importance of the work. Then ask the neighbors to come together. Let the trying place be on a neutral ground, where local jealousies cannot creep in. Try first to convince your citizens as individuals before they meet as a committee. Always ask the opinion of those whose opposition you fear. Remember Benjamin Franklin's advice, "Never try to convince by argument, but invite them to help, and they will rarely fail you." The committee should pass a resolution in favor of the plan and recommending their action to the municipal authorities. Do not write to them, but let the prime mover of the scheme, with all the influential citizens, go directly to the village fathers and in loud, clear tones say, "We must have a playground for our town!"

Do not ask for just a ball ground. This is good, but not good enough. You want not only a field for big boys, but also a playground for your children, both girls and boys, and a little park, a pleasant place with trees and seats, where tired mothers with their babies and the old grandparents can sit and rest while they watch their children play, a shelter in case of showers and where the village hand can give its concerts. There should be apparatus, such as swings and giant strides, a seesaw and quoits and, above all, a teacher or superintendent, as no playground succeeds without supervision.

To acquire this money is needed. If possible secure a nucleus, a gift from some well to do citizen, but do not depend upon it. Ask all those of moderate means to help, and, above all, do not forget to ask the aid of the poor and humble, as they are the most generous of all. Last, the town or village authorities must give to the fund. A very good way is to start a playground on a small scale as proof to the skeptics that you are right. The methods of raising money vary, according to the locality. Subscriptions, public school entertainments, flower days, fairs—every means can be used. Remember, if faith will remove mountains it will also move politicians. All that has to be done and has been done in the township of Lower Merion, Montgomery county, Pa., where the writer of this, with the help of many, both high and low, has seen five parks more than realized, as soon five parks and playgrounds will enrich her township. It only takes "a little-leaveen to leaveen the whole."

MAKING OVER A TOWN.

How Coopersburg, a Small Borough in Pennsylvania, Has Been Improved.

Coopersburg, Pa., a borough of 750 persons, has been made over according to the recipe of social experts working for the Coopersburg Neighborhood Association. The work is conceded by all the dwellers of the Lehigh county community to have been well done. The task may not be so complicated for a small community of native stock as is the average American town or city, but it seems to be worth noting.

First, the hired critic studied the village and pointed out its faults. Then he recommended the remedies, and the people adopted them. It may surprise many to learn that the most important criticism made at the beginning was that it was found that the community had "taken no cognizance of human recreational needs." There is often a fear among the serious minded that too much time and energy go to the recreation. But it seems that when Coopersburg people found recreation it was not of the beneficial sort. Here are some of the new enterprises that were set on foot by the social expert:

Village band and orchestra; boy scouts, glee club, home talent minstrelsy, baseball park, community picnic, celebrations, cleanup week and health lectures, community meetings in the schoolhouse, new railroad station—the railroad supplying that. To follow these there are to be a sewage system, physical culture in the schools, public playground, a neighborhood house, an industrial fair and a school bank.

Former President Butterfield of the Rhode Island College of Agriculture has been studying the case of Coopersburg and thinks that for a small community—Coopersburg was of the "Sleepy Hollow" sort—the reform there made is practical and worth emulating in other rural towns.

"Movies" as Chamber. The Warren Chamber of commerce is considering a proposition made by a New York moving picture concern to put the best that the city affords before the people of the state through the medium of the "movies." It is proposed to tell the story of the city which will tell the story of Warren in such a manner as to bring out the principal features of the city.

SEEING LIFE with JOHN HENRY & George V. Hobart

John Henry on Snapshots

WHEN Aunt Martha gave friend wife that new-fangled camera, I had a hunch that the dealers in photographic supplies would be joyously shrieking the return of good times and hooting it to the hank with the contents of my wallet.

"With Both Feet in a Slushy Little Snowbank Representing Nearly-the-North-Pole."

ter's lawn, and she was snapping at me like a Spitz doggie at a peedler. I sat for two hundred and nineteen pictures that forenoon, and I took for every hero in history from William the Conqueror down to Doctor Cook, with both feet in a slushy little snowbank representing nearly-the-north-pole.

But when she tried to coax me to climb up on a limb of a tree and stay there till she got the picture of me looking like an owl, I swore softly in three languages, fell over the back fence and ran for my life.

When I rubbershoed it back that afternoon friend wife was busy developing her crimes.

The proper and up-to-date caper in connection with taking snapshots these days is to buy a developing outfit and upset the household from pit to dome while you are squeezing out pictures of every dearly beloved friend that crosses your pathway.

Friend wife selected a spare room on the top floor of Uncle Peter's home where she could await developments. A half hour later ghastly noises began to come from that room, and mysterious whisperings fell out of the window and humped over the lawn.

"Where is Mrs. Henry?" I inquired.

waitress was leaving and the cook was telephoning for a policeman.

"Where is Mrs. Henry?" I asked Mary, the cook.

"She is still developing," said Mary.

"What has she developed?" I inquired.

"Up to the present time she has developed your uncle's temper and she has developed your aunt's appetite, and a couple of bill collectors developed a pain in the neck when she took their pictures, and it things go on in this way I think this town soon develop into a foolhouse!" said Mary, the cook.

A half hour later, while I was hiding behind the piano in the living room, not daring to breathe above a whisper, for fear I would get my picture taken again, friend wife rushed in exclaiming: "Oh, joy! John, I have developed two pictures!"

I wish you could have seen the expression on Peaches' face.

In order to develop the films a picturesque assortment of drugs and chemicals had to be used.

Well, friend wife had used them. A silent little stream of wood alcohol was trickling down over her left ear into her Psyche knot, and at the end of her nose about six grains of extract of potato was sending out signals of distress to some spirits of torture which was burning on the top of her right eyebrow.

Something dark and lingering like iodine had given her chin the double-cross and her apron look like the remnants of a porous plaster.

Her right hand had red, white, green, purple and magenta marks all over it, and her left hand looked like the Fourth of July.

"John!" she yelled. "Here it is!"

"Where you think the Door is Open is Only Your Mouth."

"I was a snapshot," I whispered, after I had dodged behind a sofa.

She went out of the room without saying a word, and I took out my pocketbook and looked at it wistfully. (Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

VICTORY RESTED WITH PAT

Lawyer Got Decidedly the Worst of Verbal Combat With Irish Jockey.

An Irish jockey was called as a witness in a trial, and the opposing counsel was doing all he could to invalidate his testimony.

"What are you?" he began in a bullying tone.

"Sure, I'm a jockey, same as my father was before me," was the reply.

"Ah!" said the barrister, thrusting his hands into his pockets and preparing to enjoy himself hugely with the witness, "and I suppose your father did a little cheating in his time, like the rest of the fraternity?"

"Troth, and I suppose he did now an' then," was the quiet response.

"And where do you suppose he is now?"

"In heaven, I hope, rest his soul."

"And what should such fellows as jockeys do there, I should like to know?" inquired the barrister, in a voice of thunder.

Paddy scratched his head. Then, with a sigh, he replied:

"Train horses for the angels, perhaps."

"And cheat them as they did their fellow mortals?"

"Ay, ay, ay," replied the jockey, still unabashed.

"Ah! they would be prosecuted then," exclaimed the barrister, triumphantly.

"Sorra a bit," answered the witness.

"Because they might search over and over again, and no lawyer would find them there."

Understood His Profession.

The professor of jurisprudence in a western university was lecturing to a hundred embryo lawyers. He asked whether anyone in America could own property. One fellow answered, "No, a criminal can't own property."

But the professor said: "Suppose a man who owns a ranch gets into trouble with his neighbor, assaults him and is put into the penitentiary, does he still own the ranch?"

The class was unanimous that he did, says the Youth's Companion.

"If he did not continue to own it," went on the professor, "what would become of it?"

"That was supposed to settle the discussion, but one fellow called out, 'The lawyer would get it.'"

There was a hearty laugh, of course, and the professor added:

"We learn two things from that apt remark: be a lawyer, and don't be a criminal."

Not an Industrious Lad.

Young Henry Biggs, the miller's son, who had been apprenticed to Farmer Grubbs, had not proved what might be described as a conspicuous success. And so, when old Biggs came along one day to ask what progress the lad was making, there came a certain dubious expression into the old farmer's eyes.

"Well," he drawled, "taint that I wish to discourage you nor your son neither. Taint that I wish to be grubbin' at him one bit. He don't do nothin' in' wrong—nothin' at all, if he can help it. But I wish to tell you, Henry, that it's my opinion that if your son Harry had another hand, he'd want another pocket to put it in."—London Tit-Bits.

A Call for Assistance.

"So you want me to come and reform Crimmon Gulch?" said the persuasive speaker.

"That ain't exactly what we're after," replied Three Fingers Sam, after a few words with one of the committee. "We want you to come around an' whop it up an' tell us what a rip-snortin', wicked community we are, so's to contradict the impression that the old Gulch is dyin' on its feet."

The Best She Could Do.

"We've got to cut down our expenses," said Woody. "We are living in a style that makes everybody think my income must be twice as big as it is."

"Well," his wife replied, "what more do you want, seeing that there is no chance for you to double your income?"—Chicago Herald.

Penions in Australia.

The indigent, aged and infirm in Australia may receive an old age pension, not as a charitable aid, but as a statutory right. Males who have resided in Australia continuously for twenty years may receive a pension not exceeding $2.40 per week. An invalid pension of similar amount may be paid to persons over sixteen years of age who are permanently incapacitated by sickness or injury. Provision is made for the aged, the sick, the mentally deficient and the destitute in hospitals and asylums subsidized by government. A maternity allowance of $24 may also be claimed as a statutory right at the birth of every child.

Lesson II.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 10, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, 11 Kings II, 1-12. Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, Ps. xvi, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The first book of Kings ends with a brief record of Ahab's successor, his son Ahaziah, who walked in the ways of his father and mother and of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin. There is also the record of the death of Jehoshaphat, as well as a brief record of his good reign. The second book of Kings opens with a record of the sickness and death of the son of Ahab, how he sent to inquire of Baal-zebub instead of the true God, and the Lord sent Elijah to meet the messengers and tell them that because the king had turned from God to idols he would surely die. Then follows the record of the two captains and their fifty who were sent to take Elijah, but were destroyed by fire from heaven. Compare Rev. xii, 3-6, and note that one of the two witnesses of those days will probably be this same Elijah.

Turning to our lesson for the day, we have one of the most interesting and fascinating records in the Bible, the translation to heaven without dying of the man who lay down under the juniper tree and wanted to die. There will be a generation of believers who will not die, but be caught up, changed in a moment, to meet the Lord in the air, and, for aught we know, it may be the generation now living (1 Cor. xv, 51-53; 1 Thess. iv, 16-18). The last walk together of these two men, Elijah and Elisha, is thrillingly suggestive. As they went from place to place Elijah's "Tarry here, I pray thee," and Elisha's reply, "As the Lord liveth and as thy soul liveth I will not leave thee," remind us of the devotion of Ruth and of Ittai (Ruth I, 16-18; 11 Sam. xv, 21) and also of Paul when he said: "None of these things move me; neither count I my life dear unto myself. I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." "Yea, doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord" (Acts xii, 24; xxi, 13; Phil. iii, 8).

Nothing less than this should be our devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ. The words in verses 2, 4, 6, 8 and 11 are continually with me. So they went down, so they came, and they two went on, and they two stood, they two sat, and they two slept, and they two ate, no doubt, that other translated man, Enoch, walked with God until he went home. The only requisite for such a walk is, first, redemption by His blood and then to be fully agreed with Him about everything (Amos iii, 3). How wonderful that God Himself will dwell in us and walk in us, and how we do fall to appreciate or realize it! (11 Cor. vi, 16). As they went on together on the east of Jordan, the waters of the river having parted for them, Elijah said to his companion, "Ask what I shall do for thee before I be taken away from thee" (verse 9).

Wicked men have oft said something like this, at least the first part of it, as the king to Esther and Herod to Herodias. It is not long since we heard the Lord say it to Solomon. Our Lord Jesus said it to the blind man, him whom we saw say to him, xiv, 13, 14, written for us and being said to us continually, "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." Elisha wanted something very definite, and he asked for it, and he fulfilled the conditions, and he received it. The conditions seemed easy, but they implied intense and unwearied steadfastness.

If we would walk with the Lord and look upon Him and unto Him as intently as Elisha looked upon Elijah that day we would see some desires granted. We must ask expectantly, believingly, persistently, in His name and for His glory. Well, Elisha did not fail in looking. He saw Elijah taken and received what he sought, and others saw that he had received it. He rent his own clothes, suggesting the end of self, took up the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, smote the waters, and they parted lither and thither, and Elisha went over. The sons of the prophets were watching, and they said, "The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha" (verses 14, 15). If we are redeemed we are here in Christ's stead to manifest His life and do His works by His spirit dwelling in us.

The request of the young man to be permitted to look for Elijah lest the spirit of the Lord might have taken him to some mountain or valley was finally granted by Elisha, though he knew how vain it would be. When Enoch was taken he also was sought for, but was not found, as we learn from Heb. xi, 5. What a search for the missing ones there will be when the church is taken, but not one shall be found. Yet as truly as Elijah was seen with Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration about 900 years later, so when Christ, who is our life, shall appear again with us, we shall appear in glory (Col. iii, 4) when He shall return to the earth to set up His kingdom, fulfilling the transfiguration foreshadowing. The constant expectation of being caught up to meet the Lord in the air will tend to separate us from this present evil age.

A Forgetful Poet.
Arthur Coleridge related that the poet Coleridge once journeyed from Highgate to Holborn to visit a nephew, Sir William H. Coleridge. It was very cold weather, and the poet had on a double breasted waistcoat which met just below his neck. It was discovered that he had got no shirt. His nephew remonstrated with him, to which the poet replied, "I'm very sorry, William, very sorry, but I've forgotten my shirt." Upon this Sir William kindly lent him his shirt, and, "and," said the speaker, "I regret to say that very necessary garment was never returned to its original owner."—London Saturday Review.

Serviceable Coat to Replace the Silk Sweater.

A NEW DESIGN.

This rough and ready coat supplants summer's light wraps, contrasting their frivolity with its mannish correctness. This belt appears to take the normal line—and keep it.

A CRETONNE COAT.

How to Make One at Home That Looks Smart.

The girls at a summer resort where everybody knows everybody else are, as a rule, very clannish and dress as much alike as peas. The minute one of their number appears wearing something a little out of the ordinary it is the signal for every other girl to get the same thing, with a slight modification perhaps. Instead of resenting the fact that you are "copied," you "sort of" swell up with pride that they like your hat, frock or coat well enough to want others like it. When I first noticed this fact I resolved to be the exception to the rule and not be a "copy cat," but this year my resolution was broken. The cause of my fall from grace was Olive Howell's cretonne coat.

She wore it one evening to the Campbell's lawn party over a white lingerie frock, and it seemed such a practical summery garment and so simply made that I just couldn't resist the temptation to duplicate it.

My mother bought a generous supply of cretonne and chintz before we came here to redecorate the cottage, and there were yards and yards left. So I had a vision of Cissy "tugged out" in a coat made from the leavings of the blue guest room, and I made one from the scraps left from the hangings and cushions in mother's room.

Olive lent us her coat to use as a pattern, and we soon had our well under way. It had to be cut rather like a smock, hanging full from the shoulders to form deep folds about the hem.

I made mine slightly different from Olive's by shortening the coat in front and making a square rolled down collar instead of a rounded one. Just by way of a little contrast I used plain cream colored cretonne for the belt, cuffs and collar, fastening the belt with a flat button covered with the plain material.

The sleeves caused me a lot of trouble, for I had cut them too wide to fit the armhole without gathering them a trifle. This fullness seemed to spoil the coat, so I had to rip them out after having finished them with three rows of machine stitching and cut them smaller.

Then I added a patch pocket to one side and strapped all the seams with seam binding to give the inside of the coat a neat appearance.

Olive's coat is fastened with white frog made of braided, but as I had nothing of the sort here I had to improvise fastenings from bullet buttons of white porcelain ripped from my linen frock and narrow strips of plain cretonne. I attached a button to each end of a strip and slipped it through the buttonholes embroidered on each side of the front. Five of these fasteners were needed to close the coat.

There is no end to the wear one can get from a coat of this type, for whenever they become soiled soap and water will make them like new.—A College Girl.

The Sick Aged Lady.
There is nothing so tasty for an invalid, thinks nurse, than cream toast. Make thin slices of golden brown toast, crisp and dry. Place the slices in a wire sieve and steam soft over hot water. Then butter and put in a soup plate—about three slices cut in half. Over them pour white sauce.

Make this by heating a cupful of milk in a double boiler and then adding two tablespoonsful of flour rubbed into two tablespoonsful of butter. Cook gently over low heat until the flour has lost its starchy taste. Season with salt and pepper and serve very hot. Such a dish loses its appetizing qualities if it is not hot when served, so it should be carefully covered in transit from the kitchen to the invalid's bedside.

Ancient City of Tiflis.
Tiflis, which the czar has termed "a pearl of the Russian crown," was described by Bryce as "a human melting pot, a city of contrasts and mixtures, into which elements have been poured from half Europe and Asia, and show no signs of combining." The description holds good today, for there are said to be seventy languages spoken in the ancient city.

Varicose Veins.
Varicose veins are a dilation and overfilling of the veins, usually of the lower extremities. They are caused by too great pressure of the veins involved or by the weakening of the thin walls. They are brought on by a weak circulation, interference with the return flow by tumors, overloaded bowels, long standing and overstrain.

HOMEMADE DRINKS.

GRAPE PUNCH.—Take one pint of grape juice and juice of six lemons, one pound granulated sugar and two quarts of water, mix and serve from a punch bowl. An orange or pineapple may be sliced in it desired.

Gooseberry Wine.—A recipe for gooseberry wine having been requested, the following is suggested: Take dead ripe gooseberries, wash and drain and mash as for any other wine. Add their own bulk of boiling water and let stand for twenty-four hours, or even twelve hours longer if the weather is cool. Press out all the juice, and this means all of it, whatever the appearance may be. Measure and to each gallon add three pounds of white sugar. Stir well every day for a week, then cover with cheesecloth and let stand until fermentation ceases. Then cover tight and let stand for six weeks and strain, filtering the sediment through several thicknesses of cheesecloth.

Pineapple Lemonade.—Boil one pound of granulated sugar in a pint of water until it is a thick syrup. Squeeze the juice of three lemons in a bowl and peel a pineapple, cutting out all the eyes. Then grate the pineapple into the lemon juice, pouring in the sugar syrup after this and stirring briskly for about three minutes. Add a quart of fresh water and strain into a glass pitcher, putting in a lump of ice when serving. Mixed Fruit Drink.—The more varieties of fruit used in this the better the drink. Cut up the following fruits in small bits and cover them for three hours with plenty of sugar: Pineapples, oranges, lemons (also peel of these), grapefruit, one or two large apples and some juicy pears. When ready to serve cover the fruit with distilled or mineral water, add maraschino cherries, a few softened figs, several slices of preserved citron and some big sprigs of fresh mint. Put in crushed ice and serve the drink in big glass pitcher, so that the pretty effect of the fruit can be seen.

Cold Tea.—Cold tea can be made the foundation of many delicious hot day beverages. Mixed with an equal quantity of ordinary lemonade the result is refreshing. Orange juice combines well with tea too. Any odd bits of jelly that are in the refrigerator can be melted and added to it, with lemon juice to counteract undue sweetness. The addition of fruit juice of any sort with cold richy water or apollinaris or imported ginger ale makes of plain cold tea a very tempting drink.

SALAD Dressing to Keep in the Refrigerator.—The ingredients needed for this old time recipe are: One tablespoonful of mustard, one scant tablespoonful of salt, one cupful of cream (or milk), one tablespoonful of sugar, three eggs, one-half of a scant cupful of melted butter and one cupful of vinegar. Mix the mustard, salt and vinegar. Then add the yolks of the eggs, beaten thoroughly, then the butter, beating all the time. Add the cream, then the beaten whites of eggs and, lastly, the vinegar. Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. This will keep a long time if kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Cold Chicken Bouillon.—Get good roasting chickens and remove skin and fat when cleaning them. Put them on in cold water, adding at the same time one leek to each chicken, two tender carrots, one onion and a sprig of parsley. Let the chicken barely simmer until it falls to rags. Take it off the fire, remove superfluous grease and then strain. Clarify the bouillon with the whites and shells of two eggs and then strain again. Put on the ice until needed and serve in bouillon cups.

Inexpensive Peach Ice Cream.—Stir into a quart of boiling water a level tablespoonful of flour, rubbed smooth, in a little cold milk, add the yolks of two well beaten eggs, strained. Stir carefully, cooking only a few minutes; add one cupful of sugar. Beat the whites to a stiff froth and stir them into the custard after taking from the fire. This gives a creamy taste and is an improvement when cooled. Add one-half of a pint of thick cream with the same measure of sifted peach pulp, with a little granulated sugar.

Walking Suit of Callot Check

Designed by Maison Maurice, New York.

A SMART sports or walking suit for country club wear is here featured for late autumn. It but-tons plainly up to the neck with bone buttons, where it ends in a standing rolled collar. The suit is extremely chic if developed in wool velours in black and white or brown and white callot check. The coat has a slight flare below the belt and is trimmed with patch pockets. The skirt is plain. Garter top boots and mannish kid gloves with white stitching are minor details of this practical out of door costume. The wide brimmed sailor which is here shown is covered with taffeta the same shade as the suit and has little or no trimming.

Buttons are to be largely used as dress trimmings, present indications predict.

A hat with the wide brim slashed at each side and curled upward in two little points is a novelty.

Pretty Negligee of Wool Albatross

Designed by Maison Maurice, New York.

THE model here illustrated makes a simple but pretty negligee if made of imported wool albatross in either lavender, copenhagen or rose. The gown affords a comfortable fullness and is neatly held in at the waist with a sash of the material. The pretty features are the collar, revers and cuffs of hand embroidered voile. The edges are all hand scalloped and finished off with a trill of val lace.

There are to be some petticoats with Jersey tops, and these, of course, wear far better than the petticoat that is all taffeta, for a new dounce can easily be put in place of the first one when that becomes worn.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Mermaid
That Longed to Be A Land Child.

"THERE was once a little mermaid who had no brothers or sisters," daddy began.

"Poor child!" the kiddies exclaimed, cuddling closer.

"Over her gleaming white shoulders her beautiful golden hair fell, so curly that even salt waves could not make it look stringy. Her tail was more splendid than a peacock's, for, besides being blue and green, the scales shone in sunlight like plated gold. In fact, she was a princess mermaid.

"When she swam she looked blue like the waves, and when she rested on the beach she took on land colors, green as grass. The hollow between waves was her bed and their fluffy crests her playthings.

"Our little mermaid used to gather pretty seaweeds, all shining wet, and breathe them in her golden curls."

"Was she very vain?" Jack wanted to know.

"No. But she had no playmates to think of and so thought too much of herself. And now we come very close to the little mermaid's heart—she longed and longed for a brother."

"She used to keep so near the beach always, watching for land children, that the beautiful scales on her tail began to grow pale. But when the land children went in bathing where she could reach them their parents always hovered about, frightening her.

"One morning when she was playing in the waves a beautiful child came running down to the sea. He, too, had golden curls, and his garment was of velvet, just like a real prince. Far behind came his nurse, but before she got there he espied the little mermaid.

"Oh, come out of the waves and play with me!" he shouted. "I'm lonesome—are you?"

"Now it happens that the only earth call that can change a mermaid into a land child is the call of love. The little mermaid hesitated a moment on the crest of a wave, saw his nurse coming and swiftly made her choice. With a little cry of regret she threw herself on the beach, and when the little prince stooped and took her by both hands her tail faded, changed into two little bare legs in socks; her golden curls over her shoulders turned into a pink linen frock and what were left became a Dutch cut, just like the little prince's."

"Did the little prince take her home with him?" asked Jack.

"Yes. And because he, too, had no brothers and sisters his queen mother kept her. So they played and grew up together, happy ever afterward."

HINTS ON TREE PRUNING.

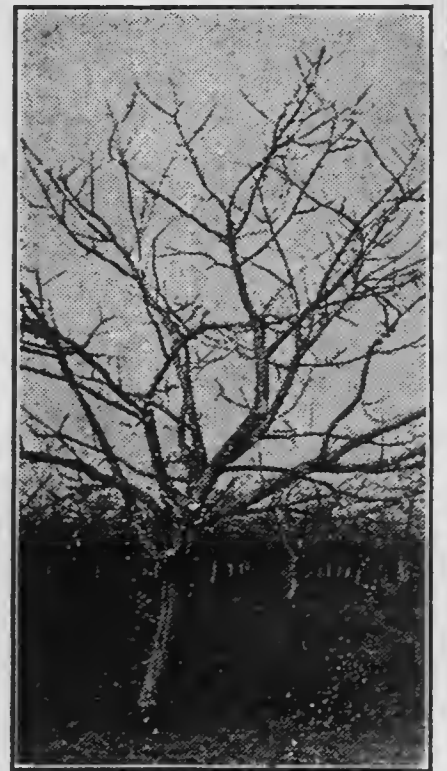

American Forestry Association Gives Out Some Timely Instructions.

September is the month for pruning trees. Through its official organ, the American Forestry Magazine, the American Forestry association issues the following instructions:

Always use a pole saw and pole shears on the tips of long branches, and use the pole hook in removing dead branches of the althaus and other brittle trees where it would be too dangerous to reach them otherwise.

Do not "head back" or cut off the top of a tree except where the tree is old and falling, and then under special instructions.

Be as sparing and as judicious in your pruning as possible and do not raise the branches so high as to make the tree look like a telegraph pole.

Commence pruning the tree from the top and finish at the bottom. Make every cut as close and parallel to the trunk as possible.

Your saw must be well set and sharp in order to make the cut perfectly smooth.

Leave no stubs, dead and dying wood or fungus covered branches behind you.

Do not cut to cover every wound with coal tar, not allowing it needlessly to run down the trunk.

Do not remove several large branches on one tree at a time. They must be removed gradually, the work extending over several seasons.

Prevent tearing the bark of the tree in removing large limbs by first making an "undercut."

Make the cuts on a slant. Some trees, like the elm, sycamore, linden and willow, will stand the process of "heading back" more than others, and the poplar is a tree that must be cut back every few years to keep its crown from becoming too tall and unsafe.

When you shorten a branch leave a few twigs at the end in order to draw the sap to the freshly cut wound and thus enable the growing layer under the bark to heal it over.

In trimming small branches or shoots the cut must be made just above a bud.

When several branches come out from the trunk in a whorl they should not all be cut away at the same time lest the tree be girdled. This arrangement of branches occurs most frequently in the coniferous trees.

LIME NOT A FERTILIZER.

There is a general impression among farmers that lime is a fertilizer. Lime is not a fertilizer. The prime reason for applying lime to the soil is to correct sourness or acidity where such exists. The legume crops, such as clover and alfalfa, do not thrive on sour soil unless the soil is very rich. Sour soils are not well suited to the development of beneficial bacteria, which are found in the tubercles of these crops. It is mainly for the purpose of favoring the growth of these bacteria that lime is applied to soils. Ground limestone is the form of lime which is usually cheapest as a soil sweetener.

There are other effects of lime, but most of them are of less importance. Lime tends to make plant food available from the soil, although this is largely through its beneficial effect on the bacteria. In large quantities it tends to make clay soils more friable, but this effect of lime is usually observed only where the freshly water slaked or air slaked lime is applied in large quantities. Ground limestone has much less effect in this respect.

A fertilizer usually gives a quick response in the crop to which it is applied provided the soil is in need of the plant food added. Lime, on the other hand, usually has a less immediate effect, the benefit being distributed through a number of seasons. On very sour soils, however, where enough lime is added to entirely sweeten the surface of six or seven inches the effect upon crops, particularly clover and alfalfa, is often immediate and striking.

The Taj Mahal.

The Taj Mahal, at Agra, India, is said to be the most beautiful structure in the world. It was built by Shah Jehan as a tomb for his wife and is of the purest white marble. It shines so dazlingly in the sun that you can scarcely look at it except in the morning or evening. Every part is inlaid with the most exquisite designs in marble of different colors, the finish being so perfect that the entire building may be said to resemble in the delicacy of its workmanship one of those Chinese caskets of ivory and ebony which are now so common in Europe and also in America.—New York American.

APPLE BORER CONTROL.

Means by Which Orchardists May Rid Their Trees of This Pest.

(Prepared by the United States department of agriculture.)

"Worming" and painting the trunks of the trees are recommended to owners of apple orchards as efficient methods of dealing with the round headed apple tree borer. A heavy application of some paint that will not injure the trees, but will remain in an unbroken coat on the bark for two or three months, is effective in preventing the female from laying her eggs in the tree and greatly reduces the amount of worming, or the removal of the insects with a knife and wire, that must be done.

The round headed apple tree borer, the most destructive of all the common fruit pests, lays its eggs in or under the bark of apple trees. After hatching the larvae feed upon the inner bark and wood to such an extent that the tree is seriously weakened or killed. The pest is found over the whole of the eastern portion of the United States and as far west as Nebraska, Kansas and New Mexico. In addition to fruit trees it feeds on service, wild crab and mountain ash trees, which makes it advisable for orchardists to remove these varieties for a distance of at least a hundred yards from their orchard.

The female lays her eggs one at a time in an incision she has made in the bark, usually just above the surface of the ground. About fifteen or twenty days later the eggs hatch and the white larva comes out from the egg. These are nearly an inch and a half in length. They first attack the inner bark, eating out broad, more or less circular galleries and thrusting out through small holes in the bark, the frass, which form little heaps of reddish wood fragments around the base of the tree. During the winter the borers are quiescent, but early in the following spring they attack the solid wood, while some of them are still their way up the trunk. These last spend one more winter in the tree and then, having passed through the pupae stage, dig their way out and emerge as adult beetles.

Ordinarily the beetle lives about forty or fifty days. It is about three-fourths of an inch in length, light brown in color above, with two broad white bands joined in front, extending the full length of the back; the under parts and front of the head are white. The females rarely fly any considerable distance, so that if the immediate vicinity of an orchard can be kept free from them there is little danger of a serious infestation.

The most common method of ridding an orchard of these pests is to cut away the bark sufficiently to trace the hollow made by the borer. A hooked wire is then inserted into the burrow and the insect pulled out. If made with care the wound in the tree caused by this process will heal readily. The castings at the base of the tree serve as an indication of the presence of the borer. Where the burrows are curved or obstructed in some way so that the wire cannot be inserted, cotton batting dipped in carbon bisulphide should be inserted and the hole then plugged with moist earth. The gas from the carbon bisulphide will penetrate all parts of the burrow and kill the borer.

In addition to worming, as this process is called, paint is often used to prevent the beetles laying their eggs. Pure white lead and red lead paint, mixed rather thick, will not injure the trees, and when applied to young, smooth bark will form a protective coat during the egg laying season. It is probable that this is a more effective method than wrapping the trees with building paper, cotton batting, cloth or other materials sometimes used for this purpose. Before painting, however, the bark should be removed from the base of the tree for a depth of from three to four inches. The surface of the trunk thus exposed should be first scraped and painted and the earth then replaced. This is necessary, for the beetle sometimes lays her eggs under instead of above the ground.

Self Feeder For Thrasher.

Those of us who have stood up in front of a separator cylinder and clawed in the wheat or oat bundles left and right through a long August day will be interested in a new type of self feeder recently patented by a Minnesota thrasher man. This device does away with the band cutters as well as the machine feeder.

This is but one of a dozen or more patents issued in short time on similar claims. The operation of a thrasher is becoming more and more a question of mechanical ability.—Farm Progress.

Liming Clover Land.

According to a recent announcement of the Massachusetts station, liming soil increases the size of clover plants and the percentage of nitrogen in them, but whether the clover is grown on soils without an application of nitrogen or supplied with sulphate of ammonia. There was a marked increase in the ability of the plant to gather nitrogen where lime had been applied. It is further concluded that sulphate of iron and sulphate of aluminum are very harmful to the roots of clover plants. Carbonate and hyfrate of lime neutralize these injurious properties, however.

New York's Earthquake.

The "New York earthquake" occurred Aug. 10, 1884. It was a terrific earthquake through New England and the middle states, its center of intensity being in the villages of Amityville and Jamaica, N. Y. The walls of the Presbyterian Sunday school at Jamaica were cracked in two places, one two inches wide, from the roof to the foundations, and the walls of a certain house were cracked in a pattern that the red color being apparently the result of oxidation caused by the presence of lead oxide.

The Color of Metals.

Various facts in support of the theory that all metals are naturally of the color of silver are given by Dr. L. Martonchek in a Russian chemical journal. The yellow tint of certain metals, such as calcium, has been found to be due to the presence of traces of impurities, the pure metal being silvery white. Helme has also shown that when copper is especially purified it becomes of a paler tint, the red color being apparently the result of oxidation caused by the presence of lead oxide.

PLANNING OF GARDEN CITIES

Workingmen's Homes That Are Economical and Sanitary.

SIMPLE AND ATTRACTIVE.

These Have Met With Great Success in England, While Also the Idea Has Been Taken Up in Germany and Elsewhere—Rents Are Low and Ownership Encouraged.

(By Frank Koester, consulting engineer, New York; author of "Modern City Planning and Maintenance.")

The garden city in its best form is a well organized development, in which from 100 to 500 homes make up a unit, which is intended to grow little if any larger. When additional demand springs up for quarters a new garden city is formed elsewhere, and thus the identity of the existing one is preserved indefinitely, and the residents, in the expectation of spending their lives in their own homes, have every incentive to embellish them and keep their grounds in the best possible condition.

The garden city in plan should be laid out in the simplest, yet most attractive manner. There being no traffic of any consequence, the streets should be planned with the degree of irregularity which insures charm. Some of the streets should be winding, while the straight ones should have suitable terminals. Each house should be provided with a spacious garden, as it is from the gardens that such cities take their name. Such gardens, though partially devoted to vegetable raising, should also be well laid out with flower beds, and the whole garden city should be subject to such regulations as will insure sufficient attention being given to the gardens to produce the intended appearance. Grass plots, trees, hedges, shrubbery and arbors should be in abundance both in the front and in the rear of the houses. The neglect of the residents should not be allowed to mar the appearance of the city.

The houses may be quite simple and compact in design, but they should all be individual in character and by no means the frightful rows of boxes, all exactly alike, which are put up for workingmen's houses in most rural or suburban places devoted to such purposes.

The economical design of the buildings and the small expenses for streets make the housing cost small, so that the rent may be low or the workman may live in a reasonable length of time become the owner of his own home. Garden cities should be laid out with in easy reach of transit facilities, and natural advantages of site should be secured whenever possible to give individuality and charm to the plan.

The sanitary provisions of the garden cities should be carefully carried out, and the details should be simple, but solid in construction and as inexpensive as possible.

A garden city is principally a place of residence, and it should have as few stores as possible, only those of the most necessary character being provided. A school may be the only building of a public character.

In garden cities, however, which are larger and located in a more or less isolated position the suburban character is lost, and they become small cities and should be accordingly provided with a great number and variety of stores and public buildings. The city may have its own civic organization, with a library, churches, museum, theaters and the like, and be a complete civic unit.

Garden cities have with greater success in England than anywhere else, although a greater number and variety of them are now in process of formation in Germany.

The principal English garden cities are Port Sunlight, near Liverpool; Bournville, near Birmingham; Letchworth, near London, while the leading German garden city is Hellerau, near Dresden. The numerous workingmen's colonies in Germany, which first began to be founded about 1863, are earlier prototypes of the present garden cities, but on a less comprehensive scale and with less open ground.
